

3 September 2014, Reading, UK

RE: ESA EO Summer School

EO Summer School 2014 in Frascati was a great opportunity for me to meet interesting people with different remote sensing backgrounds and areas of research. It gave me an insight into and a chance to broaden my knowledge in the areas of remote sensing previously unfamiliar to me such as atmospheric and ocean remote sensing. It was a fantastic experience (nice atmosphere, hot weather and beautiful scenery) and I would recommend participating in this school to anyone who wishes to widen their horizons and step a little bit outside their own remote sensing research topic and learn something new.

Karolina Fieber

Doctoral Researcher at University of Reading, UK