The EMS Annual Meeting & 9th European Conference on Applied Climatology was held in Lodz, Poland between 10 and 14 September, 2012. This conference gathered a lot of highly respected scientists in the world working in the field of applied climatology.

My participating was supported by European Meteorological Society (EMS) through EMS Young Scientist Travel Award. I would like to kindly thank to the EMS for me this opportunity.

During the conference I had the chance to meet several people interested applied climatology, other PhD students as well as researchers and professors. More than 390 participants from 52 countries were presented their reports (oral and poster). All sections that I visited were very interesting and informative.

I had a poster report “System of weather comfort forecasting for European Russia” in section of Biometeorology. This section also had a large number of oral presentations on topics related to my Phd.

Once again I want to thank EMS me and other participants for supporting and the opportunity to attend and participate in the conference.
